More About National Comp Speaker Bill Minick

Bill Minick, JD, LLM, Chairman, PartnerSource

Bill Minick has served as a tax attorney with major law firms, developed many of the first alternative dispute resolution programs for employment-related claims, and led the Dallas property and casualty insurance operation for a global insurance broker. But Minick is best known for pioneering Texas injury benefit programs and growing PartnerSource into the leading consulting firm for competitive alternatives to traditional workers' compensation.

Advising dozens of Fortune 500 companies in retail, food service, healthcare and transportation, Minick has fostered industry partnerships to deliver best-in-class benefits and liability insurance coverages, better medical outcomes for over one million injured workers, and billions of dollars in economic development.

Minick has multiple law and insurance licenses and degrees from Abilene Christian University, Pepperdine University and Southern Methodist University. He has worked extensively in government affairs and public relations, developed trade groups (e.g., ARAWC.org) and program designations (e.g., QCARE.org), written new laws and regulations, and motivated workers' comp system improvements in multiple states.

He has written extensively for national publications (e.g., Risk & Insurance, WorkCompCentral, WorkersCompensation.com, Business Insurance and Insurance Thought Leadership) and been a featured presenter at many major insurance, legal and workers' compensation industry conferences (e.g., National Workers' Compensation & Disability Conference, Workers Compensation Institute, Workers Compensation Research Institute, Risk & Insurance Management Society, State Bar of Texas, National Academy of Social Insurance and Self-Insurance Institute of America).

Minick is active in many charitable and civic causes (e.g., service as secretary of Kids' Chance of Texas, a judge of the Comp Laude Awards, a trustee of Abilene Christian University, and a board member of the Men's Advocacy Group of New Friends New Life). He is also active consulting, writing, speaking, and serving the injury benefit and workers' compensation industries through collaborations that advance better outcomes for injured workers and employers.
